Employment Focus Group Takes a Deep Dive In To Most Requested Service Type

On June 14th, thirteen Employment Providers from the ServingTogether Network came together for the first Employment Focus Group. Employment has been the number one service type requested in the network over the past year. With 394 individual service requests for employment alone we understand the need for a variety of employment services and programs. At the June 14th Focus Group we looked at:

- The level of positions available and specific industries served by current providers – IT, construction, healthcare, etc...
- The questions our Peer Navigators should be asking veterans seeking employment that will ensure we are sending them to the right provider
- Gaps in employment services in the network

In addition to getting a better understanding of our current employment service providers, the focus groups are proving to be an invaluable opportunity for providers to meet and network with others in their field. We hope you will join us our next provider focus group. Additional information coming soon!
